The Four Winds.

Wind of the North,
Wind of the Norland snows,
Wind of the winnowed skies and sharp, clear stars—
Blow cold and keen across the naked hills,
And crisp the lowland pools with crystal films,
And blur the casement squares with glittering ice,
But go not near my love.

Wind of the West,
Wind of the few, far clouds,
Wind of the gold and crimson sunset lands—
Blow fresh and pure across the peaks and plains,
And broaden the blue spaces of the heavens,
And sway the grasses and the mountain pines,
But let my dear one rest.

Wind of the East,
Wind of the sunrise seas,
Wind of the clinging mists and gray, harsh rains—
Blow moist and chill across the wastes of brine,
And shut the sun out, and the moon and stars,
And lash the boughs against the dripping eaves,
Yet keep thou from my love.

But thou, sweet wind!
Wind of the fragrant South,
Wind from the bowers of jasmine and of rose—
Over magnolia glooms and lilied lakes
And flowering forests come with dewy wings,
And stir the petals at her feet, and kiss
The low mound where she lies,

LOST MR. GREYLAND.

BY HERO STRONG.

She was a proud woman always, and just now she was a very angry one.

Her fine figure was drawn up to its utmost height, her brown eyes flashed so they looked black, and a vivid crimson burned on her cheek, whose brightness no oriental rouge could ever hope to rival. Imogene Leigh had always been handsome—tonight she was magnificent.

Charles Greyland could not help admiring her, even while her glance of scorn burned into his soul and crushed out the deep love he thought he bore her.

He was rich and she was poor, and in that fact lay the cause of the trouble. Some kind friend—everybody has these kind friends, you know—had insinuated that Imogene was marrying Mr. Greyland for his money; and Greyland, in a moment of pique occasioned by Imogene's dancing twice with a handsome cousin of her own, had let fall something of the kind in her hearing. Of course Greyland was a fool, but not so much of a one that he was not sorry for his folly the instant the thing was done, but he was too proud to say so. He did not for a moment believe that Imogene's love for him was influenced by his fortune; he had only spoken thus because he was angry, and angry people are generally idiots for the time being.

Never would he forget the flash of Imogene's eyes, or the keen sarcasm of her tone, as she answered him:

"You are free, Mr. Greyland. A man with a soul so small that he deems a few paltry thousands of more consequence than himself, should seek a mate from among his own kind. Take back your ring. It is a diamond, and as such no doubt valuable to you."

He set his heel on the bauble and ground it into the carpet; then he said a few angry words, for which he would always be sorry, and left her.

They went their separate ways, and tried their best to show their faces to the world bright and gay.

Imogene succeeded admirably, but Mr. Greyland overshot the mark, and people said he was getting frivolous, and the pastor of his church "labored" with him, and won the everlasting dislike of his wealthiest parishioner by so doing.

About this time Marge Atherton came to the city where our disunited lovers dwelt, and here was a field of labor just suited to her. She had been some years in pursuit of a rich husband, but the man she desired to honor was slow in making his appearance, and there was a strong prospect that Miss Atherton, in spite of her manifold attractions, would have to die an old maid, or emigrate to Oregon—a country where it is generally supposed they do not raise women.

Mr. Greyland was the very subject for her. She set herself to work at once to conquer him. She flattered him, she deferred to him, she asked his opinion on every trifling thing, and poor Greyland's heart was so sore that he was glad of anything by way of balsam.

The very day that he had made up his mind to propose, fate stepped in and did a good stroke of business for him.

A great financial crisis occurred, and swept away every dollar he possessed, and in twenty-four hours the news was all over the city; and when, a day or two afterward, Greyland, aching for sympathy and love, went to call on Miss Atherton, she was "not at home," though he could have sworn he heard her at the top of the stairway.

And that ended their acquaintance. Miss Atherton married a seventy-five year old millionaire, who willed all his property to a home for old women when he died; and Greyland became misanthropic, and took to keeping dogs and smoking cigars innumerable.

Things with him were not so bad as at first suspected. They never are, at least in stories, and he had after all, a few thousands left. He went into business on a small scale, but the confinement of the counting room injured his health, and sometime in the summer his physician sent him to the White Mountains to recruit.

Meanwhile Imogene Leigh had become an heiress. A great aunt of hers, after living fifteen years beyond the age of man, and tormenting the lives almost out of everybody who had anything to do with her, had died respectably one night in her bed, and when her will was opened, her greedy relatives found that she had bequeathed everything to a grand-niece they had scarcely heard of.

But it was no use to get angry, and so they were all very sweet and affectionate when Imogene came and took possession of Beechlawn.

But the girl found the great house very lonely, and so in July she joined Mrs. Judge Kendall's party and went to the mountains.

And so it happened that at the Crawford House the names of Imogene Leigh and Charles Greyland stood one above the other on the clerk's register.

They met at breakfast. Imogene in her crimson morning robe, with her silky black hair rippling down over her shoulders, and her white hands sparkling with diamonds—not his diamonds, however--looked very fair and queenly as she sat opposite to him and sipped her coffee, and carried on a brilliant fire of repartee with Judge Kendall. To have seen her and Greyland, nobody would ever have dreamed that they had once been all the world to each other.

Two or three days passed away. Somebody introduced Mr. Greyland and Miss Leigh, and they had exchanged a few well-bred platitudes and drifted apart. That night Greyland tossed until morning in his bed—audibly anathematizing the mattress for his restlessness—and Miss Leigh nearly succeeded in making herself believe that the winds in the corridors were keeping her awake.

Next morning Greyland started off alone for Mount Washington.

Everybody told him to take a guide, and spoke of the danger of going into those mountain wilds alone, but he laughed at them. He was not going to convert himself into a hero by getting lost—not he! He should dine at the Tip Top House, and be back in season for stewed partridge at the Crawford.

Imogene sat on the piazza doing some trifle in green Berlin wool, and heard every word. Of course it was nothing to her any way, but after Mr. Greyland disappeared in the scrubby evergreens which clustered around the entrance to the bridle path, she was conscious of a feeling of something lost out of the brightness of the day.

Clouds began to gather over the summit of Mount Willard. A party who had ascended early in the morning came down drenched; and by and by the equestrians who had gone up to Mount Washington just after Greyland's departure returned cold and blue.

A hard storm was in progress on the mountains—the mist and fog were almost blinding—and Mr. Greyland had not been seen or heard from. Grave apprehensions were entertained for his safety among those who understood the danger of being lost on the mountains, and the gentlemen stood apart in knots, and discussed the matter with serious faces.

The night of storm and gloom wore slowly away, and the morning broke cold and wet. Imogene sat by the open window, just as she had sat all night, listening to the wild howl of Rudolph, the beautiful pet hound of the missing man, which had been left chained in his master's room.

With the first gleam of dawn a party of guides and a half-dozen friends of Greyland sallied forth to search for him.

Another dismal night, and another misty morning, and again they went forth on their quest—this time with little hope of finding him alive; but, as one of the guides remarked:

"It looked unchristian not to find the body and give it a decent burial.

Imogene heard what the man said, and for a moment her heart stopped. She knew now that in spite of all the scorn she had tried to feel for Charles Greyland, she had never ceased to love him.

And now he was dead.

No, no, she would not admit the thought! He must be living! God, who was so good—who loved all his creatures—would surely suffer her to find him, to ask his pardon for the past, to tell him that in spite of everything she loved him still!

She threw a shawl over her shoulders and went to the room he had last occupied. The key was not there, but her own key fitted the lock. She went in and released the dog, which sprang into her arms with a cry almost human in its sorrow and despair.

She hugged the wretched animal to her breast, for had he not loved and caressed Rudolph!

She said not a word to any one, but, preceded by the dog, she took the path she had seen Greyland take.

Rough and stony, full of mud-holes, barred by brushwood, and obstructed by gullies, she found the way, but she followed the dog.

All the long forenoon she went on, faint, almost despairing, and so weary that it seemed at each successive step as if she must sink down.

Rain, and mist, and fog, were all around her—she could see scarcely a rod in advance, and many a time she trod the extreme edge of a precipice all unawares. And Rudolph led her on.

At last they found him!

The glad barking of the dog a little ahead sent joy to Imogene's heart. She leaped forward and sank down helpless by the side of Charles Greyland. He was sheltered by a rock and he was smoking a cigar, and altogether seemed quite comfortable for a man who had been two nights lost in the mountains.

Imogene would have fallen back on her pride even now, but it was too late. Greyland had her in his arms, and was kissing her cold lips in a way that made all attempts at remonstrance useless.

"You did love me after all, darling!" he cried; "and I thank Heaven for being lost; and I don't mind the cold and wet, and hunger, a bit. Put your arms round my neck, dear, and tell me that you forgive my hateful conduct of a year ago, and tell me that you love me."

And she obeyed him meekly enough, while Rudolph capered around them, and expressed his satisfaction in a series of joyful howls, which woke all the mountain echoes for miles around.

The party out in search heard the dog, and were guided to the spot, and by sundown everybody was safely basking in the warmth of the great wood-fire in the drawing-room of the Crawford.

Two weeks afterward Charles Greyland and Imogene were married, and a happier home than theirs I do not think you have ever seen. Neither do I think that a more contented, self-satisfied-looking dog than Rudolph exists.—[New York Weekly.

An Automatic Rifle.

A number of army officers and members of the National Guard witnessed a test recently in New York city of the new Rees automatic rifle. This is said to be the most rapid firing repeating rifle in the world, its automatic action permitting the firing of five shots per second without losing aim and without removing the gun from the shoulder.

The man who runs across a bunch of antelope with such a rifle will be pretty sure of bringing down his game. It requires no effort but a single pull of the trigger to load and fire the rifle and eject the empty shell, each successive pull of the trigger repeating the complete operation. The automatic action is obtained by inserting a spring in the breech of the gun, and by allowing the spring to do the work usually performed by hand. This spring is wound by turning a crank-arm in the breech through six revolutions. The gun is then ready to fire twenty-five shots without further attention. The safety catch is a marked improvement, rendering it safe at all times, because the trigger cannot be pulled until the catch is pressed down. It only requires one movement to press down the catch and pull the trigger, for both are placed in such a way that the natural grasp of the breech effects the desired results.

The rifle weighs 8 1-2 pounds and is well balanced. There is very little recoil and there are no openings through which dust can sift when the gun is not in use. The mechanism in this rifle may also be adapted to the uses of shot-guns without perceptibly increasing the weight. It has about the same number of parts as the Winchester and other similar rifles and its owner says it can be manufactured at about the same cost. The action attained by the rifle solves a problem upon which many countries of Europe have long labored without success.—[St. Louis Republic.

Music from Afar.

Frank White, a ditch-tender for the South Yuba Company, who makes his headquarters at Crystal Springs, is handy with the violin. Frequently these stormy evenings the people at the various stations along the line get him to rosin the bow and give them telephone concerts. They hear the music 20 or more miles away as plainly as though they were at the player's side.—[Nevada Transcript.

THE SWANETANS.

A Curious People Living in the Heart of the Caucasus.

Poor and Degraded, Yet Occupying Magnificent Castles.

Before the Anthropological Society of St. Petersburg, a member, Dr. Olderogge, read recently an interesting paper on the results of his explorations in the heart of Caucasia. He had penetrated where few explorers had been before. He came to Swaneta, a long but narrow valley at the foot of the Elburz Mountain, through which the river Ingoora winds. For most of the year Swaneta is isolated entirely from the world, and even in the summer season the mountain passes leading to the locality are made extremely dangerous by water currents, avalanches, and falling rocks. There is a strange semi-savage people in the valley numbering about 9000 families. They subsist on their chase for wild animals of which there is an abundance in the mountains, and in the mild season of the year plant just as much grain as is required for their immediate necessity. Every now and then a Swanetan will wander away from his secluded home into a more civilized neighborhood to sell a few hides and to get in exchange a few things that he misses in his native valley, such as cloth, cotton fabrics and some articles of apparel. But this he does very seldom and with great unwillingness, for his needs are few and his native valley has made him love isolation. They speak a dialect the principal element of which is Georgian, with Persian and Kirguese terms of speech strongly intermixed. They are of a pacific nature and extremely shy of strangers. Dr. Olderogge introduced himself to them as a hawker, and, trying to trade with them, drew them into conversation and made his studies and observations.

The dress and manner of living of the Swanetans present a striking contrast to the dwellings they occupy. They cover their bodies with hides in the winter and go about half naked in the warm season of the year; of cleanliness and comfort they know nothing, and there are no luxuries among them. But they live in ancient castles of magnificent construction, though more than half ruined. There is quite a number of such castles in the mountain that encircle the Swanetan valley. The Swanetans have a sort of writing, and their folk lore is rich in curious traditions and quaint legends, pointing to a time when their intercourse with the world was more frequent than at present, and when they ranked among the strong and civilized peoples of the region. But all this is dying out with them. They worship four divinities and sacrifice animals unto them. Their conceptions of those deities are strikingly suggestive of corrupted notions of the Trinity and the Virgin, and indicate that they were once Christians, but lapsed into heathenism before Christianity took deep root among them. They are strangers to all that we accept as social morality. There is a terrible percentage among them of lunatics, idiots, epileptics, and those stricken with cognate, physical and nervous diseases.

The physical deformities of the Swanetans are commensurate with their moral deterioration, and show that they must have lived as they live now for many generations. Their heads are flattened at the back and abnormally elongated in the temples; they are marked with strong prognatism and with diasthem of both the upper and lower teeth. Nearly all the Swanetans have goitres, which begin to develop at a very early age. It is interesting to notice that a branch of the same people living more southerly in the district called Didian-Swaneta, more accessible to the influences of the outside world, presents a more normal element, both morally and physically, than the Swanetans here described. The Burnham Industrial Farm.

At Canaan Four Corners, N. Y., is an institution chartered by the State of New York, designed to furnish a home and Christian training for unruly and homeless boys. Its methods are unique, but the results obtained have fully justified them. W. M. F. Round and his wife devote, without remuneration, a considerable portion of their time, energy and money to this work, and their benevolence has been recently supplemented by the gift of $10,000 for the construction of the new Gilpin memorial building. Mrs. Mary Sophia Gilpin, late of Wilmington, Del., during her lifetime expressed a wish to leave some of her property for the purpose of assisting in the education of moral improvement of boys, but at her death no will was discovered. Two of her sisters, Miss Sarah L. Gilpin and Mrs. Elizabeth Maury of Morristown, N. J., decided, however, to appropriate a portion of the property coming to them from their sister in furthering her expressed wish. They presented accordingly the sum of $10,000 to the Burnham industrial farm to be used in the erection of some permanent building for the enlargement and better accommodation of the institution's work. The proposed building is to be situated on the most prominent part of the farms, on the high ground overlooking Lake Queechy to the north and commanding a wide view of hill country to the east and south. The building will include the boys' department, quarters for the matron, accommodations for visitors and the director's home. Only about one-half of the boys now at the farm are to have quarters at the building, the rest living in cottages near by, each cottage to accommodate about ten boys and to be in charge of one of the brotherhood. The building of the Gilpin memorial is only one of the steps in the process of enlarging the institution from its present capacity until it shall be able to accommodate from 1000 to 1200 boys. The institution depends entirely upon voluntary contributions for its enlargement and support, and it takes boys from all parts of the country. Six states are represented by the present membership.—[Boston Transcript.

Making It Rather Personal.

This is credited as one of General Lew Wallace's Turkish jokes: There lived in Stamboul, Turkey, a well-to-do Turk named Ismail Hassam. He did not have the imagination of a Rider Haggard, but he was endowed with a ready Oriental wit that stood him well in hand when he was in a tight place. A neighbor called on Ismail one day and wanted to borrow his donkey to use an hour. Ismail made a low salaam and said:

"Neighbor, I am sorry, but my boy started on the donkey an hour ago to Scutari. By now he is gayly trotting over the hills far from the sacred precincts of Stamboul."

Just as Ismail finished his speech, a donkey's loud bray was heard in the stable, which was under the same roof as Ismail's house, but in the rear. The neighbor said:

"Ah, I hear your donkey bray."

Ismail protested that his neighbor's ears were deceived, and that the noise was not a donkey's bray. Then the donkey, which was supposed to be jogging along toward Scutari, brayed twice loudly.

It was too much, and the neighbor cried:

"Oh, that is your donkey, Ismail; Allah help me, I can now borrow him."

Then Ismail said: "Which do you believe is lying, the donkey or me?"

The neighbor had to give Ismail the benefit of the doubt, and went away.

New England's Largest Apple Tree.

The largest apple tree in New England is in the northwestern part of Cheshire, Mass., and it stands in the dooryard of Delos Hotchkiss. Its age can be traced by a family tradition to 140 years at least, and it may be twenty or twenty-five years older. It is now of symmetrical shape; the trunk is nearly round, without a scar or blemish; there are eight large branches; five of them have been in the habit of bearing one year, and the remaining three the next. Mr. Hotchkiss has gathered in one year from the five branches eighty-five bushels of fruit, and his predecessor has harvested 110 bushels from the same five branches. By careful measurement, the circumference of the trunk one foot above the ground, above all enlargements of the roots, is thirteen feet eight inches. The girth of the largest single limb is six feet eight inches. The height of the tree is sixty feet, and the spread of the branches as the apples fall is one hundred feet. The fruit is rather small, sweet and of moderate excellence.—[Boston Transcript.

Books Neither Written nor Printed.

The Prince de Ligne is the possessor of a curiosity of literature. It is a book that is neither written nor printed.

"How can that be?" you ask.

Well, the letters are all cut out of the finest vellum and pasted on blue paper. The book is as easy to read as if printed from the clearest type. The precision with which these small characters are cut excites infinite admiration for the patience of the author. The book, by the way, bears the title "Liber Passionis Nostri Jesu Christi, cum characteribus nulla materia composita." The book of the Passion of Our Jesus Christ, with characters not composed of any material.

The German Emperor Rudolph II. is said to have offered in 1640 the enormous sum of eleven thousand ducats for this curious work of art. Strangely enough, the book bears the English arms, though it is supposed never to have been in England.—[Illustrated American.

THE CORK KILLED HIM.

Sad End of a Remarkable Battle for Life.

Death of Brave Pastor Bothwell in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Rev. Dr George W. Bothwell, the pastor of the Church of the Covenant in Brooklyn, N. Y., who had inhaled the cork of a medicine bottle into his left bronchial tube two weeks and two days before and whose plucky fight for life has attracted general attention and sympathy, died in his wife's arms at 9:20 o'clock, in the forty-first year of his life. Nothing but his magnificent physique and his iron will kept him alive so long under the strain of the repeated operations performed on him in the last fortnight at the Brooklyn City Hospital. The case has attracted widespread interest all over this country and Europe, and the greatest sympathy has been expressed on all sides for the afflicted wife.

The accident which resulted in Dr. Bothwell's death was simple in the extreme. His youngest daughter had been ailing for several days, and he took her on his knee and prepared to give her a dose of medicine which had been prescribed by the family physician. The child had taken the mixture before, and did not relish its taste. She demurred somewhat at having to repeat the unpleasant experience and began to cry.

Dr. Bothwell had taken the cork from the bottle and placed it between his teeth, preparatory to pouring out the dose, when his other daughter entered the room and began to make faces at her sister.

Something she said or did caused her father to laugh aloud and at the same instant the cork was drawn inward. A violent fit of coughing followed which failed, however, to force the cork, which was about half inch in diameter at the large end, back into the mouth. Dr. Bothwell tried to reach it with his finger and did so, but instead of removing it he only forced it further into the larynx. It finally settled into the left bronchus.

This was the opinion given by the family physician, Dr. W. H. Biggam, and subsequent developments proved that he was right.

Other physicians were consulted the same day and the general opinion was that the cork before very long would be expelled in a fit of coughing.

Dr. Bothwell preached on the Sunday morning following without much difficulty, but in the evening he was scarcely able to finish his discourse. Various means were adopted during the next few days with the idea of dislodging the obstruction, but all proved useless.

Acting upon the advice of his physician and friends the reverend gentleman then went to the Brooklyn Hospital. There the operation of tracheotomy was performed by Dr. I. W. Rushmore. A pair of forceps was inserted into the left tracea and into the bronchus, but no hold of the cork could be obtained. A day or two afterward another attempt to remove the cork by means of a small corkscrew attached to a cathelet was made, but no better results followed. The patient collapsed during the operation and it was thought for a few minutes that he would die then.

Many consultations followed, but it eventually impressed itself on all interested in the case that there was no possible chance of removing the cork, and that all that could be done was to ease the patient's sufferings until death should end them. Suggestions from medical men all over the country were daily sent to Dr. Rushmore and the hospital surgeons, but none of them were practicable.

To the last Dr. Bothwell was resigned and uncomplaining. For several days before his death he knew that there was no hope for him. To a close friend he said it was hard to leave his family and church, but that he was fully prepared. When conscious he was cheerful to the end.

SWEPT BY A TORNADO.

Destruction Caused by a Hurricane in Paducah, Ky

Between 5 and 6 o'clock on a recent evening a hurricane with heavy rain and hail swept into Paducah, Ky., from the west. The funnel shaped cloud characteristic of tornadoes was present. In a few minutes the streets were rivers of water.

The first work of destruction by the tornado was the unroofing of the Newport and Mississippi Valley Railway freight depot. After this the tornado cut a zigzag swath through the city. The roof of the colored people's school-house was torn off, as was that of the freight office of the Paducah, Tennessee and Alabama Railroad. The Third Street Methodist Church was picked up and dropped into the middle of the street, a confused mass of debris. It had just been newly built. Several mills were more or less damaged. The steamer Clyde was blown into the river with such force against a barge as to sink the barge. One hundred buildings were either totally wrecked, moved from their foundations or unroofed.

Mrs. Henry Meyers and her three children were badly cut by flying glass and debris on Third street. Wesley Orr was buried under an overturned wagon and suffered internal injuries, and his little son was also badly hurt. Several others are reported injured. The street car service was interrupted, and the havoc among telegraph poles and wires was so great that no communication could be had with the rest of the world till 4 o'clock next evening. The storm lasted till midnight.

HONDURANIAN REBELS.

Desperate Battle About the Cuartel at Amapala.

Desperate fighting is reported from Amapala, in Honduras, between Government troops and a force of rebels under General Bardales and Colonel Molina.

The rebels made an unexpected attack on the cuartel at Amapala, and as the guards were taken by surprise the insurrectionary forces were soon in possession

Colonel Barrera, with a detachment of 630 Government troops, were summoned and made a desperate attack on the cuartel. Severe fighting followed, which resulted in a victory for Barrera, the rebels retreating with heavy loss. General Bardales, one of the rebel leaders, was left dead on the field.

Amapala is situated upon the island of that name, and the rebels were driven to the mainland. Colonel Barrera has a force of 300 infantry and forty cavalry guarding the island. The rebels are besieging the place, and evidently intend to make another attack as soon the reinforcements which they are expecting arrive.

A VALLEY DEVASTATED.

Fifteen Mud Volcanoes Play Havoc in Chili.

The beautiful valley of Lunahuana, Chili, has experienced a topographical change. Fifteen craters have been continually at work since Sunday, March 22, throwing out masses of mud, which, in its precipitate descent, and with the monstrous strength of the current, is carrying ruin in all directions and sweeping houses before it, together with their inhabitants and the cattle, vineyards, farms and irrigation works. All the roads north and south of there have been converted into ditches, through which water is continually pouring.

FEMALE FLORICULTURISTS.

Census Bulletin on a New Field of Labor for Women.

A census bulletin on floriculture, given out for publication a few days ago, has an interesting history. It is understood to be the result of a suggestion made by the wife of the Superintendent of the Census, with a view of opening up a new avenue of employment for women. Superintendent Porter, from the day he received his appointment until now, has been worn down by pitiful appeals from women for employment. Without straining facts it might be said that the proportion of rejected women applicants was as high as ninety-nine out of a hundred. Many of those disappointed took a woman's chance and appealed to the wife of the Superintendent, who seeing so many helpless females in the world, turned her mind to devising some new opening to employment. The result was the special report on floriculture which now appears and which was made at her suggestion.

It seems that there are already over 300 floricultural establishments owned and managed by women, and the number is susceptible of being indefinitely increased. The returns of receipts from cut flowers for last year exceed $15,000,000. This is undoubtedly only a part of the actual receipts derived from this source. The products of the year were nearly 50,000,000 of rose bushes and 153,000,000 of other plants. Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio are the States where the propagation of roses is caried on most extensively New York, Illinois and Kansas take the lead in the propagation of hardy plants, and New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania and California are about equal in the value of their cut flower sales. The industry is capable of much greater development, and is one for which women are peculiarly adapted.

SEVEN ACRES BURNED.

A Destructive Lumber Fire in Long Island City, N. Y.

Fire broke out in the yard of the Export Lumber Company, on Newtown Creek and the East River, Long Island City, N. Y., at 11 o'clock on a recent night. There were three acres of lumber stored there, and the flames spread rapidly. The entire department of Long Island City was called out. W. R. Grace & Co. are the owners.

The fire started in Roncaster's iron foundry, the cause being, as is supposed, a spark from a casting which had been made just before the shop closed. The fire smouldered until 10:30, and then broke out fiercely. The foundry was totally destroyed. The Clark & Simpson feed mills also took fire and were burned to the ground. The flames then spread to H. S. Whiting's retail lumber yard, which was entirely consumed. The fire next attacked H. S. Burrough's wholesale lumber yard in Newtown Creek, adjoining the Export Yard, and it was destroyed. The Timis-Simons Lumber Company's mill followed and was soon a total loss.

The barkentine Teneriffe, Captain Gayle, was lying at Burrough's Pier, and narrowly escaped destruction by being towed into the stream.

All the Standard Oil Company's fire tugs and the entire Long Island City Fire Department, under Chief Casey, were on the scene, and doing good work.

A heavy wind prevailed which added materially to the fury and progress of the flames. The fire covered the entire lumber district of six or seven acres, or thirteen city blocks, which was almost entirely covered by lumber piles. The loss it was thought might reach $1,000,000.

FIVE CHILDREN PERISH.

A Maryland Father Sees Four Daughters and One Son Burn.

The house of James Cole, colored, in Prince George's County, Md., was burned on a recent night and his five children perished in the flames. The father went from his home to visit a neighbor, leaving the house in charge of the children—four girls and one boy—whose ages ranged from five to fifteen years. When the fire broke out the children were asleep. The father, assisted by Mr. T. M. Naylor and his brother, attempted to rescue the unfortunate children, but without success.

THE ITATA SEIZED.

A Chilian Steamer Held by United States Marshals.

A dispatch from San Diego, Cal., says: The Chilian steamer Itata, which arrived in this port the other day for the ostensible purpose of getting supplies and coal, has been seized by United States Marshal Gard, and is now lying here with a Deputy Marshal aboard, awaiting instructions from Washington. Captain Mauzum, of the Itata, was at first put under arrest, but was later released and returned to his vessel.

The seizure was made as the result of a number of telegrams which passed between the United States officials here and the authorities in Washington and was due to the supposition that her mission here was to get arms and ammunition from the schooner Robert and Minnie for the Chilian insurgents.

Besides the Itata and the Robert and Minnie, a steamer which was at first supposed to be a Chilian war ship was sighted off this port, near the Coronado Islands. An effort was made to board her but it proved unsuccessful, she apparently seeking to avoid the officials.

At midnight just before the arrest the Itata received forty head of cattle, twenty-five head of sheep and 3000 pounds of dressed meat from the ferryboat Coronado. The vessel has also received other stores, including 800 tons of coal. As soon as all the provisions and fuel were on board she expected to leave the harbor and cruise between here and Catalina to meet the Robert and Minnie, from which she was to take the rifles and ammunition.

The Itata is a Chilian merchant vessel, built in Liverpool in 1873, and belonged to the South American Steamship Company, of Valparaiso. Her tonnage is 1766, length 290 feet and draught of water 19 7-10 feet.

The schooner Robert and Minnie appeared to be heavily laden, and it was reported that her cargo consisted of arms and ammunition for the Chilian insurgents. The Robert and Minnie is an American vessel, owned in San Francisco.

A RAILWAY TRAGEDY.

A Robber Kills Two Fellow Passengers on a Russian Train.

A passenger traveling from Cracow, Poland, to Lemberg, Russia, in a night express train, suddenly drew two revolvers, and with one in each hand, demanded of his three fellow travelers in the same carriage, their money and valuables. A frightful struggle ensued in the narrow compartment. The ruffian used his revolvers with effect, killing two of the men in succession. The third passenger grappled closely with the assassin, who fired in vain, being unable to touch him. Having emptied all the chambers of his revolvers, the assassin tore himself from the grasp of his antagonist, burst open the car door and jumped from the train while it was going at full speed.

As soon as the alarm could be communicated to the engineer the train was stopped. The survivor was barely able to inform the horrified passengers and guards what had happened. The train was backed to the vicinity of the spot where it is supposed the assassin jumped out. A search was made, but without avail. No traces of the miscreant could be found.

A CURIOUS REMEDY.

Using Disease-Infected Chinch Bugs to Kill Healthy Ones.

Chancellor Snow, of the Kansas State University, who last year discovered a disease fatal to chinch bugs, has received application from farmers in fifty different counties in Kansas for disease infected bugs. These bugs are infected with what Mr. Snow calls chinch bug cholera. A few of the insects are placed in a field of wheat, and soon all the bugs sicken and die, effectually ridding the field of the pest. It is not believed that the chinch bug has yet made its appearance in Kansas wheat fields, but the farmers are making ready for them.

OUR PUBLIC MEN SHOULD TRAVEL MORE.

While the trip of President Harrison is a grand ovation, the people at every point turning out en masse to see and hear him, and while his speeches are all most excellent ones, applauded and received with great favor, he is gaining invaluable knowledge of the country he could not have obtained in any other way. He will return to the White House with broader ideas and with a brain well stocked with information of a practical nature. He will benefit by it and so will the nation.

By the way, the CAROLINIAN believes that it is a great pity that every Member of Congress cannot be more familiar with the great country for which he legislates. There is always a tendency to a belief that the sun rises and sets within the limits of the individual horizon. No one can gain an idea of the vast and varied interests of this great Nation without becoming acquainted with them by actual experience. If a Congressman's ideas are bounded by the corn and cotton fields of North Carolina, the praries of Illinois, the wheat fields of Minnesota or the manufacturing establishments of Pennsylvania, he necessarily sees things in a narrow groove, and his ideas of legislation are as confined as are his notions of the country of which he is a citizen and a law maker

A general knowledge of all sections is the best knowledge a man can possess who aspires to legislate for the Nation When this sort of knowledge is more widely diffused we shall hear less about sectionalism and more about the welfare of the whole country,

THE COUNTRY'S FINANCES SAFELY MANAGED.

A cotemporary says truly that it is a cold day when our brethren of the opposition do not discover some overwhelming impending "calamity" about to befall the country on account of a Republicana dministration of national affairs. Unfortunately for their credit as prophets the calamities never occur, From 1860, when they predicted the dissolution of the Union as the certain result of the election of the Republican President down to the present time, their aspiring prophecies have proven mere "croakings" of disappointed and disgruntled elements.

The country has always been safe as to its finances with a Republican Secretary of the Treasury. It was with a Republican Secretary that means were found to prosecute the war; under another that specie resumption was accomplished; under another that policy in relation to silver was adopted with promises to lift it to a level with gold in due time. The country is still safe as regards its finances, because the only Democratic administration in a quarter of a century did not dare to change the Republican Treasury policy, and an able Republican financier is again at the head of that department.

It will be noticed that while the Farmers' Alliance movement goes marching on one great statesman who has relations of peculiar intimacy with the horny-handed Granger is saying nothing and sorting seeds His full name is Jeremiah M. Rusk "uncle" by brevet, to the whole American people. There's no telling what the zephyrs are whispering as they wend their insinuating ways through his labyrinthian whiskers.

In discussing the influence of protection, Mr. North, of the American Wool Growers' Association, says very tersely that "protection stimulates manufacture by increasing the profits to manufacturers, this stimulus brings new capital into the business; this new capital encourages vigorous domestic competition, which in turn cuts down the prices of manufactured goods to the lowest possible level." This is something that Democrats either fail or refuse to see.

Carter Harrison of Chicago now enjoys a first-class opportunity to "know how it is himself." For years the pluguglies and thugs of that city were his loyal henchmen and did his bidding. But since his insisting on a fair count that has secured the election of a Republican Mayor these people are sending him billet doux ornamented with skulls and cross bones and filled with vile epithets and threats to take his life. He now goes about with a gun in his pocket.

The Farmers Alliance is on the decline in the North Western States. The favorable working of the McKinley bill is doing it.

LOWER PRICES FOR TIN PLATE.

Free trade descendants of Annias, see here! Dunn & Co's commercial report for last week says:

The change in average prices of commodities has been but a slight advance for the week, in spite of the rise in wheat for manufactured products tend lower on the whole. Heavy liquidation puts tin down to 19½ cents and lead to $1.15, and large importations cause tin plates to be offered at some decline.

How does that statement compare with the Democratic falsehoods during last year's campaign? Notwithstanding the heavy advance in all farm products, of which the people in the grain raising States do not complain, "manufactured products tend to lower." Think of it!

Reader, just ask the campaign liar of last fall's campaign, who is paying the increased duty placed on that imported tin by the McKinley bill? The "tariff is a tax,' is it? Yes, it is a tax on the foreign manufacturers that protects home labor, farmers and manufacturers and builds up the home market.

Edison gives it out that the secret of success is to do but one thing at a time. If he would invent a pair of electrical goggles that would extend his vision to Albany, N. Y., he might see a man drawing a salary as Governor, another salary as United States Senator, scheming to put Cleveland in a hole and to dictate his party's policy, all at the same time.

The Western editor who rises to remark that those who declare that the prospect for a great crop this year in another misfortune for the Democratic party, overlooks the fact that even this dismal cloud has a silver lining for them. The more corn, the more whiskey—the more whiskey the more Democrats.

The cigar manufacturer, who said he was compelled to advance the price of his goods 10 per cent "on account of the infamous McKinley bill," is still in business at the old stand and selling his product at the old price or less. So are nearly all the other liars who were so loud and lively in the last campaign.

The American Economist, of New York, has reliable information that one of the largest purchasers of tin plate in this country has just signed a contract with foreign manufacturers for the supply of tin plate with the new duty deducted from the price.

At the rate they are going the Free Traders will soon be glorifying Abraham Lincoln as one of the founders of their party, just as they now have been celebrating the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, who was one of the most thorough-going Protectionists of his time.

The only deficit that ever existed in the United States Treasury was created by the Democratic party, and the only surplus was created by the Republican party.

The Governor of Oregon thought better of it He went out to meet the President just the same as if he hadn't said he wouldn't.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, May 9, 1891.

Secretary Blaine is in New York and Secretary Foster will not talk about Behring Sea matters, consequently there are a number of rumors flying around about what is or is not to be done. That which is most generally believed says that England and the United States have decided to jointly police the Behring Sea for the purpose of preventing the taking of seals this season by anyone, if it can be done. Whether this be entirely correct I cannot say, but there are good reasons for believing that some such agreement has been or will be reached, and I have just been told that it was probable that Russia would be asked, if it had not been already, to join in the agreement. It is said that the President obtained some new and important information of this subject while on the Pacific Court, which was immediately wired to Mr. Blaine.

The Federal Council of Venezuela has approved the reciprocity proposition submitted to that government by Secretary Blaine, without dotting an "i" or crossing a "t," and all that is necessary to make it a law is the proclamation of the President. which will probably be issued soon after Mr. Harrison gets back to Washington, and another maket will be opened wider to American farm products and manufactures, and still the reciprocity idea goes marching proudly along constantly adding to American prosperity.

The report of the New Orleans grand jury declining to indict anybody for the lynching of the Italians excited very little comment here, as it was exactly what everybody expected, Rudini was several days ahead of time in notifying the Marquis Imperiali, who was left in charge of the Italian legation by Baron Fava, the minister, of the severance of all diplomatic relations with the United States. He should have waited until the report of the grand jury was made public, and then he might have taken that as an excuse for his action. It will not be fully decided until the President returns what action the government will take, but it is said that two members of the Cabinet now in the city are in favor of withdrawing our minister and closing the American legation in Rome until such time as the Italian government shall recever its senses, and I think it probable that is just about what will be done.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Nettleton went to New York yesterday, and he will remain several days, paying special attention to the workings of the new immigration law, in which he is greatly interested The administration of this law is a part of Gen. Nettleton's duties, and he is confident that under its provisions he will be able to greatly improve the character of the immigrants landed at our ports. It is generally admitted that there is ample room for improvement of that sort.

Secretary Noble has informed a delegation of Choctaw Indians that called on him with reference to obtaining the money that Congress appropriated to pay for certain lands belonging to the Choctaw nation that nothing could be done until the President returned. This is the appropriation that Secretary Noble has been said to be opposed to paying, because of his belief that too great a portion of it was going into the pockets of a Washington attorney.

The President's Speeches.

Exchange.

President Harrison's tact and judgment were disclosed in the admirable series of informal addresses made in Indianapolis during the canvass of 1888. For many weeks he received delegations, and in every instance a favorable impression was produced by his speeches and manner. The same talent for saying the right thing has been displayed during his journey on the Pacific Coast. Always cordial, direct and candid, he wins the affections of his audiences by his unaffected manner of speaking, while he commands their respect by his dignity of bearing and unfailing self-posession. He never has the air of a man who is reciting something which has been carefully prepared, but always speaks extemporaneously and naturally, very much as a well informed host entertains his friends, without artifice or lack of frankness A President who meets his fellow-citizens in that candid way inevitably inspires a feeling, not only of respect for his office but also of personal attachment and loyalty.

The President has the rare art of discussing public questions with so temperate a judgment as to disarm partisanship. In his excellent address at the San Francisco banquet he spoke of many matters of National concern respecting which there have been marked differences of political opinion in Congress; but not by a single maladroit expression did he convey the impression that he was a Republican Executive holding counsel with friends of his own party. The defence of the seabords, the construction of a modern navy, the restoration of the merchans marine the development of the shipbuilding industry, the improvement of ocean mail service, the enlargement of the export trade, the cultivation of friendly relations with Spanish America and the completion of the Nicaragua Canal, were the topics which he discussed in quick succession. His opinion was frankly expressed in each instance, but there was not a trace of partisanship in his broad and statesmanlike method of treatment. All these matters were taken up as the details of a National policy which Americans could support from motives of patriotism and enlighted self-interest.

A fact worth knowing is that blood diseases which all other medicines fail to cure yield slowly but surely to the blood cleansing properties of P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium.)

Many letters are received by the P. P. P. Co, from patients saying they had used such and such a blood purifier and sarsaparillas, mentioning their names and stating they did no good, and they did not get well until P P P (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium) was tried. These letters we started to publish when the various manufacturers wrote us fearful letters, and we discontinued same, but P P P (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium) is triumphant on every occasion and has made a host of friends in cures of Syphilis, Rheumatism, Scrofula, Blood Poison, Dyspepsia, Malaria and Female Complaints.

People wonder when they find how rapidly health is restored by taking P P P (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium). The reason is simple, as it is a powerful combination of the roots and herbs of the home woods,

State Convention.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

State of North Carolina, Raleigh.

In accordance with the expressed desire of the Southern Inter-State Immigration Convention held in the city of Asheville, N. C., in December last and in compliance with the will of a large number of leading citizens from each section of the State. I hereby call a convention of all those interested in the upbuilding of North Carolina to assemble in the city of Raleigh on the 13th day of May at 5 P. M., in the Common Hall of the State. The object of the Convention is to secure a united effort on the part of the citizens of North Carolina to co-operate with the Southern Inter-State Immigration Bureau in developing the natural advantages and making known the great opportunities offered the capitalists, manufacturers and honest, law abiding people who desire to secure homes in a genial climate among a hospitable, moral and christian people.

TRIGESTIA.

A Valuable Remedy for Dyspepsia.

Dyspepsia is Indigestion. What constitutes Indigestion? A loss of complete preparation of the food for absorption. Obviously this may be the result of derangement of any of the above mentioned processes. The stomach may not supply the requisite amount of gastric juice, the pancreas may be at fault or the liver inactive, or (and perhaps most frequently) the fault may be primarily in the nervous system, which has been aptly compared to an intricate telegraph system, and the demands made through it on the secreting organs not being properly transmitted, the secretion of all of them is below the required quantity. As for medicines, for a lack of gastric juice we have a remedy in Pepsin, prepared from the digestive organs of animals which has exactly the same action on meat fibre and albumen. As yet nothing has been discovered to duplicate the action of the pancreatic juice and bile, but subnitrate of Bismuth certainly does in some way exert a powerful influence on intestinal digestion In addition there are such tonics as serve to elevate the condition of the nervous system.

A preparation that impresses one as being particularly valuable is the Trigestia Tablets, a non-secret preparation of Pepsin, Bismuth and Nux Vomica. The Pepsin used in this preparation is always estimated as regards its digestive power by actual assay, the Bismuth is of the best, and the Nux Vomica the purest English extract. The action of the Pepsin and Bismuth have been explained above, and it is only necessary to add that Nux Vomica is undoubtedly the best tonic we possess for nervous dyspepsia. These tablets are flavored with peppermint, which, in addition to its agreeable flavor, is a corrective of flatulence. They are offered at a moderate price, 25 and 50 cents per bottle, postpaid, and can be obtained of the manufacturer, A. J. Ditmen, Broadway and Barclay street, New York City

The North Carolinian.

Wednesday, May 13, 1891.

We want weekly information from every county of the Albemarle District, of every and all-new enterprises starting or established, improvements of all kinds, everything connected with the development of this section and the upbuilding of the people. Send us short, plain statements, as often as may be. The CAROLINIAN is interested in the material advancement of this section of Eastern North Carolina, and it will gladly publish all matters of the kind indicated.

Every working hour counts now.

The live truckers are "tickling the soil" with the cultivator.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the Nag's Head Hotel.

Willis D. Riddick, residing near Winfall, died on the 2nd inst, aged about 80 years.

Court at Manteo last week only occupied one day. Not a case on the State docket. Good for Dare.

A number of our farmers are diversifying this season more than in former years. And they are wise in doing so.

It is reported that the late cold snap did considerable damage to the young cotton, Some farmers have had to replant.

Capt. Jos. W. Etheridge, Superintendent of the Life Saving Service has moved his family to Beaufort where they will spend the summer,

The Sloop "Laura J.," was sunk in the Sound, near Mann's Harbor several days ago, but she has been go up again.

The Beacon states that Miss Fannie O. Melson, postmistress at Plymouth, who went North for the benefit of her health, has returned very much improved.

Mr. John L. Rogerson, the popular proprietor of the "Woodard House," has been elected Mayor of Edenton. The CAROLINIAN tenders congratulations.

A tenement house on the farm of W. C Lowry jr., near Woodville, was destroyed by fire on the night of the 3rd inst. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

It is reported that at the Municipal election at Hertford on the 4th inst, the ballot box was stuffed Only 68 votes were registered, but 102 were found in the box.

It is announced that the Sach Fish Commissioners, Wm. H. Lucas, Adam Warner and J. A. Holmes will hold their first meeting at Ocracoke on the 24 h of June. It is said that many entries of oyster lands will be made.

Elizabeth City has become an important center for the manufacture of lumber. The area now occupied by saw and planing mills is much larger than at any point in the State. And it is reported that yet other mills are to be built.

Register George B. Bliven informs the CAROLINIAN that during the past fifteen days there have been 116 oyster ground entries made in Dare county—66 of them being for 640 acres each, and the balance for 10 acres each. Whew!

The Edenton Fisherman & Farmer says that on the 7th inst, Mr T. R. Moore, an old bachelor of 65, and Miss N. Rogerson, a girl of 14, were married at the residence of the bride's father in Perquimans county. While enroute for the groom's home they were followed by a lot of school children singing, "O, what will the harvest be?"

There are truckers, and truckers. The one class dig, and plant, and gather what unaided nature grows. The other, first study the soil and the character of the vegetable or fruit, and then carefully prepare the ground, using the needed fertilizers and attentively cultivating until maturity comes. It is the latter who succeed. Among them in this section are Capt. Waters, Geo. D. Pool, Arthur Pritchard and O. F. Baxter.

There is a secret colored organization in this county called "The Weeping Mary Burial Society." They have a constitution and work according to a ritual. The membership including both men and women, is increasing and the objects are to aid each other in distress and to decently bury their dead. They claim that they have already buried a number, the cost of which would otherwise have fallen upon the county.

Above all things the CAROLINIAN desires to see Elizabeth City and all this section prosper, and, as in the past so in the future, it will do what lies in its power to accomplish it. Let there be general co-operation all along the line. Where confidence has been weakened let that be speedily done that will strengthen it; let every wrong be righted and a policy of fairness substituted for every measure that has wrought injustice. A word to the wise is sufficient.

It pays to undertake only so much work in any avocation as can be properly attended to. There is no profit in undertaking too much.

——Choice confectionaries, Canned Goods Eggs, Plums, Peaches, &c, at Robinson & Co.

Produce something out of season, make it attractive and delicious, and see how quick it will sell and how soon there will be a call for more of the same.

——It makes the boys smile when they look over Fowler & Co's stock of Fancy shirts.

——Small profit is better than sluggish goods—Robinson & Co.

"A Friend to the Negro" writes from Boston to inquire of the CAROLINIAN "whether G. A. Mebane is Principal of a school at Elizabeth City." He is not. He is known here as "a played out politician."

A reader asks: "Why were some of the original American colonies called plantations?" The British government in old times used to make grants to all who were willing to plant colonies. Hence the colonies were called plantations.

——How can Fowler & Co, sell 26 line white pearl buttons at 10 cent per dozen.

——A quick quarter is better than a slow dollar—Robinson & Co.

Captain Samuel Waters sends the CAROLINIAN a sample of what he calls 'Native Grass," which he has been cultivating and is now cutting for hay. It is over three feet in height and the stalk very much resembles the timothy.

——Mr. Lund, a competent artist from Denmark, will have charge of my Gallery during my absence. Call and see the large Portrait given away.
J. F. ENGEL.

Not a week now passes that we do not receive requests from parties residing at the North for copies of the CAROLINIAN, all stating that they wish to learn something about our town and country. Interest in this section is increasing—more people making inquiries than ever before.

——THE FRANKLIN is the best $2 50 shoe for men in the City. For sale by Moses Weisel.

——A satisfied customer is the best advertisement—Robinson & Co.

The "popular man" is not generally a safe man· he is generally shallow, often insincere. commonly a mere demagogue, usually incapable of giving sound advice, and owes his popularity to his art of offering pleasing follies, fallacies and futurities as substitutes for plain truths and inexorable facts.

——All the latest spring dress goods may be procured at Fowler & Co's, including mohairs, cashmeres, henrettas, albatross and light weight flannels in all desirable shades.

In conversing with a quite intelligent gentleman the other evening, the subject of newspapers came up when, during the conversation, he remarked: "I am a reader of newspapers, and I think there isn't a country paper published that is not worth a dollar a year; but, in my judgement, the fuller reports of general news, the greater variety of selected literary and miscellaneous matter and the larger amount of original and local matter in the CAROLINIAN makes it a cheap paper at one dollar and a half." Of course, we agreed with him.

——If you want a silk dress go to Fowler & Co's. They keep a full line of Surahs in dark and evening shades, Faille, Peau de Soie, Armure and the cheapest line of China Silks to be found in Elizabeth City.

Newspaper borrower, did you ever pause to reflect that you are a nuisance of the first water? Do you know that the neighbor from whom you borrowed this very paper you are now reading is often greatly inconvenienced by you? He subscribes and pays for it for his own and family's use and benefit; it is not done for your pleasure, education or comfort. He may not tell you so to your face, because the class of men who subscribe and pay for a newspaper are usually good, kind hearted fellows; but they do a good deal of thinking all the same when you ask for their CAROLINIAN.

——A comfortable back room, in second story of the CAROLINIAN Building, for rent. Suitable for office or bed room.

LOCAL MENTION

The frost last week nipped the tender plants.—The new s bed at the Depot is a decided improvement.—A number of the young people are utilizing the pleasant weather, some out promenading, others riding in the country and still others sailing down the river.—A. F. Riddick, the popular sheriff of Perquimans, called on Thursday.—Pennsylvania Avenue has been neatly graded. A liberal part of the expense was born by the Toadvine Lumber Company and Jones & Co.—Editor Babb, of the Perquimans Record, dropped in the other day and paid his respects—The Town Commissioners have exempted the members of the Fire Company from street tax, and have ordered the amount they paid last year to be refunded.—A man never makes a greater mistake than when he imagines that any one in the world is really interested in his aches and pains.—The versifier thus states it:

If we only had things as we want 'em you know,
The world wouldn't go so confundedly slow;
For there's many a skip,
And there's many a slip,
And there's many a flip,
And a rip, and a dip,
That makes us quite weary and bleary and blue,
Because we can't do as we'd all like to do.

—Jones & Co, have just added a steam feed to their large saw mill on Pennsylvania Avenue, and they have also put in machinery for the manufacture of truck barrels.—Martha Rogerson, one of the most worthy and highly esteemed colored women of this place, died at her residence on Pearl street on Friday.—The family of Capt. Z. G. Barrus, residing here during the winter, left for their old home at Hatteras last week.—There are a good many people who enjoy seeing a tin pan tied to the tail of some other man's dog.—The School Committee have finally adopted plans for the new public School House, to be located on the recently purchased lot on the Northern extension of Pool street. Sealed proposals for the work will be received up to June 1st. For printed specifications, apply to J. P. Overman, secretary.—If you want any house moved and don't wish to disturb the tenant, Joe Pritchard can accommodate you. He moved one a few days ago for Mr. Pailin, on Poindexter street, the family occupying it going on with cooking and work all the while.—Hon. T. G. Skinner and Solicitor J. H. Blount were in the city on Thursday.—Contractor Peter S. Shipp is putting up a very neat house for Mr. C. H. Robinson on Front street.—Down with the "croakers,"—

There is no "r" in the month of May;
But the lover of oysters you cannot bluff;
And he still calls for his favorite dish—
There's an "r" in oyster and that's enough

—The real obstacles to public improvements in Elizabeth City are the would-be "bosses" who secretly gerrymandered the Wards of the town so as to override the people in the local government.—Visitors looking up and down Main street all remark, "What a pretty street this is!"—The "Sociable" held its regular bi-weekly meeting at the residence of Dr. P. John, on Shepard street, on Friday night. There was a good attendance and a very enjoyable time.—Mr. Ed. Irvin, who something over a year ago, after spending a long time here, went back to his home in Pennsylvania, has returned to accept the position of book keeper for the Albemarle Lumber Co.—A good many country people were in town on Saturday, and the merchants did a fair trade.—Mrs Lieut. Chayter has returned from Key West, Fla., and expects to spend the summer here.—The music of the hammer and saw continues. In almost every part of the city the work on new buildings and improvements on old ones goes steadily on.—Rev. Mr. Heritage, the colored Episcopal minister at Edenton, held service at the colored school building on Sunday. He is well educated and is an eloquent speaker.—

All who like a live paper to read,
Say that the CAROLINIAN takes the lead.

—The best "head quarters" is brains. —The numerous flower yards, for which our town is noted, are increasing in beauty.—T. W. Watson, the colored Architect and Builder is now putting up a new Colored Baptist Church at Moyock.—The Young Men's Christian Association now occupy their new rooms in the second story of Sanderlin & Co's Drug Store on Water street.—The meetings at the Opera House, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., will continue during this week. The addresses of Mrs. Walker are making a strong impression and are calculated to do much good.—Captain Thomas Spires the newly elected Town Constable, entered on duty on Monday.—The ladies of the Presbyterian Church held an Ice Cream and Strawberry Festival at the Court House on Monday night.—Judge Bangs, of Buffalo, N. Y., was here this week.—The market tax on country Carts has been abolished, and hereafter truckers will be permitted to sell outside the Market limits between the hours of 10 A. M., and 4 P. M.—Mrs Judge Pool is now at New London, Ct., and her health is gradually improving.—Rev. Mr. Thomas being absent, the pulpit of the Baptist Church was occupied on Sunday morning by Rev Josiah Elliot, of Hertford.—The merry "Pic Nic" season is here once more.—The Town Commissioners are getting ready to start work on the Fire Engine Building and Hall.—The Board of Pension Examiners now meets every Wednesday.—We are sorry to learn that Mrs Robert A. Sawer, on West Church street, is seriously ill. She is a lady well advanced in years, among the oldest in the city.—The St. Catharines Guild of the Episcopal Church will hold a Strawberry Festival in the yard at the Rectory to-morrow night; and the Young Mens' Christian Association will hold one at their Room on Friday night.—Next Sunday will be "Children's Day" at the Methodist Church. There will be special and appropriate exercises.—There are a number of strangers in the City, hailing from different points. —Geo. B. Bliven esq., of Manteo, was here yesterday. He called at the CAROLINIAN office and paid his respects.—There is quite a pleasant contrast in the weather from last week.—Deputy Collector Wm. G. Pool leaves to-day on an extended official trip.—Mr. George D. Pool dropped in last evening and reported that from his half acre pea patch he picked and sold 86 boxes, and that none of them brought less than $2. He says last week's frost cut the yield short at least 14 boxes.

——The building of the Electric Light Company caught fire about I o'clock this morning and the house and all the machinery were destroyed. It will be some time before the lights can be put on again.

Looking After North Carolina's Interest.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—A force of young North Carolinians, young ladies and young men, are employed in the Treasury making a schedule of the names of those who are to be beneficiaries when North Carolina distributes the direct tax fund. They have come here from North Carolina for this purpose and are under pay of the State.

THE LYNCHERS JUSTIFIED.

Summary of the New Orleans Grand Jury's Report.

Six Men Indicted for Tampering With Talesmen.

The New Orleans Grand Jury, who for several weeks have been probing the incident of March 14 last, when a mob of citizens of that town shot and hanged several Italians in the Parish Prison, have presented their report to the Criminal Court there. After reciting the complaints and charges the report says:

"We have referred to the large number of citizens participating in this demonstration, estimated by judges at from 6000 to 8000, and regarded as a spontaneous uprising of the people. The magnitude of the affair makes it a difficult task to fix the guilt upon any number of the participants. In fact, the act seems to involve the entire people of the parish and city of New Orleans, so profuse is their sympathy and so extended their connection with the affair.

"In view of these considerations the thorough examination of the subject has failed to disclose the necessary evidence to justify the Grand Jury in presenting indictments."

The report is quite voluminous, asserting the existence of the Mafia (the Italian secret society) at New Orleans, and charging that Hennessey's death was the result of his close pursuit of the Italian murderers.

New Orleans, the report declares, has been a refuge for Italian brigands and cut-throats, banded together in a society whose teachings are contrary to the principles of this Goverment. Law must regulate these transgressors; but where the law cannot do it, through the intervention of these secret societies, then the people must exercise their sovereign rights and "issue their decree of condemnation."

Thus the action of the band of New Orleans citizens who marched into the Parish Prison is justified.

The Grand Jury also present indictments against six persons, chief of whom is Detective Dominic C. O'Malley, who in person is directly charged with what the Grand Jury term the mistrial and unwarranted verdict in the Hennessey case. He and his associates are held for the alleged bribery of talesmen.

The Grand Jury furthermore report that they have discovered that three of the Hennessy jurors, if not more, were bribed.

The Jury's Report in Washington.

A Washington dispatch to the Associated Press says that the "report of the New Orleans Grand Jury upon the killing of the Italians was a fruitful theme for discussion among people at the Department of State. It may be said that the findings of the Grand Jury excited no surprise, for some such conclusion was expected. The attempt to palliate the infraction of law by offsetting the alleged attempts at jury fixing is deprecated by the legal minds of the department; but there is a well-defined opinion that, on the whole, the outcome of the case will be beneficial in its effect upon the turbulent foreign elements in the United States, inasmuch as it will make clear to them the fact that they cannot rely upon treaties to escape responsibility to the great public for their unlawful acts.

"The report of the Grand Jury will, it is expected, reach Secretary Blaine in the course of time, and figure in the official correspondence between the United States and Italy."

An American Stoned in Florence.

On the day that the New Orleans Grand Jury made its report, William Jacques, an American gentleman from Newton, Mass., was out driving with his daughter at Florence, Italy, when a mob of people pursued his carriage, attacked it, pelted it with stones, and severely injured his daughter, who interfered in his defence.

Jacques, according to a Boston dispatch, is the electrician of the American Bell Telephone Company and well known in Boston and the principal cities of this country. He sailed from New York for England and the Continent about a month ago for pleasure, and intended to be absent about five or six months. He was accompanied by his wife and two children, both daughters, one about eight and the other about ten years old. He is a man of about forty years, and of very quiet and unpretentious disposition. He very seldom expresses any opinion concerning public matters, and his friends are entirely at loss to understand how such a man could become the victim of a mob. He is a highly cultured gentleman and was formerly a college professor.

A GOVERNOR OUSTED.

The Supreme Court Holds That Mr. Boyd is Not a Citizen of Nebraska.

The Nebraska Supreme Court has handed down a decision in the quo warranto case in which ex-Governor Thayer contested the right of Governor Boyd to hold his office.

The opinion written by Justice Norval and concurred in by Justice Cobb, grants a writ of ouster against Governor Boyd and finds that Mr. Thayer is entitled to the office. Governor Thayer took the oath and filed his bond, and Mr. Boyd turned over the office to him.

The decision of the court is based on the ground that Mr. Boyd was not a citizen of the State at the time of his election. He came from Ireland with his father, but his father had neglected to take out his second naturalization papers.

Judge Maxwell, in his dissenting opinion, holds that Mr. Boyd, being a citizen of the Territory when it became a State, became a citizen of the United States by virtue of the Enabling Act.

Mr. Boyd will carry the case to the Supreme Court of the United States.

At the election last November there were three candidates for Governor, and James E. Boyd received a plurality of 1141 over Powers, the Farmers' Alliance candidate, the balance of the State ticket elected being Republicans. After the result was declared the claim was made that Mr. Boyd was not eligible to hold any office, not being a citizen of the United States. It seems that his father came to this country while James was a minor and the father never completed the process of becoming a citizen.

When Mr. Boyd demanded the office Gov. Thayer refused to give it up on the ground that no eligible successor had qualified. The controversy lasted several weeks and seemed likely to end in bloodshed. As Mr. Boyd had become generally recognized as Governor, however, and as a lower court had decided in his favor, an arrangement was made by which the question was submitted to the Supreme Court, Mr. Boyd meanwhile to hold the office. The decision has just been rendered against Mr. Boyd.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

Items of Interest Relative to the Chicago Exposition.

France, Great Britain, Spain, Venezuela, Mexico, Salvador, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Honduras, San Domingo and Colombia have formally accepted the invitation to participate in the exposition. Informal information has been received of the acceptance of Russia, Japan, Peru, Brazil and a number of others.

Theodore Thomas, it is announced, will be musical director of the exposition, and Professor Tomlins, choral director.

W. T. Baker, who succeeds L. J. Gage as President of the Local Directory, is President also of the Chicago Board of Trade.

The Art and Trades Association at Vienna has declared in favor of the artists and manufacturers of Austria making a creditable exhibit at Chicago, and has urged the Government to assist them to do so.

Dr. J. F. Fox, Member of Parliament for Kings County, Ireland, visited Exposition headquarters recently and assured the officials that there will be a fine exhibit from the Emerald Isle at Chicago in 1893.

Peru will hold an exposition at Lima in July, 1892, and transport the greater part of it to Chicago in 1893.

Japan will spend $500,000 upon its exhibit. Its trade with the United States amounts to $25,000,000 annually.

Abraham Monakad, a Syrian residing in Damascus, wants to reproduce at the Fair a portion of the "The Street Called Straight," and the house of Cornelius, in which the Apostle Paul was converted, and to exhibit a dozen of his countrymen engaged in embroidering, playing and singing national airs, and making and serving coffee in Syrian style.

The Department of Publicity and Promotion, of which H. P. Handy is chief, is sending out in six or seven languages between 3000 and 4000 separate pieces of World's Fair literature daily. They go to about 20,000 newspapers and 5000 individuals and commercial agencies, etc., in nearly every nation on the globe.

It is announced that the Lady Managers will soon send Miss M. B. Schiller, of Pittsburg, to Colombia, Venezuela, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and Brazil; Miss Ellen A. Ford, of Brooklyn, to Chili, Argentine Republic, Paragua and Uruguay; and another woman, yet to be selected, to Mexico and Central America. This is in accord with a recommendation of a committee of the Board of Lady Managers.

Chief of Construction Burnham has appointed Dion Geraldine Superintendent of Buildings of the Exposition. He expects soon to have 100 draughtsmen and fifty surveyors at work.

A Boston orchestra, composed of young women, has offered to furnish music at the Women's Building during the Exposition.

PRESIDENTIAL ITINERARY.

The Executive Tour Through the Far West.

Record of the Daily Incidents and Receptions.

President Harrison received an enthusiastic welcome at Santa Cruz, Cal., on the eighteenth day of his outing, while on his way from Monterey to San Francisco. He delivered a short address. The party was taken to Big Trees in a special train, and on returning to Santa Cruz resumed the journey to San Francisco. The next stop was at Los Gatos, where the President was escorted to a decorated stand near the railroad track, and made a brief speech. The party soon left for San Francisco. A committee of citizens, headed by Mayor Sanderson, met the party with carriages at the ferryboat, and the President, Postmaster-General and Secretary Rusk were taken to the Chamber of Commerce, while others of the party went to the Palace Hotel, where they had luncheon. A dense crowd cheered the President as he alighted from his carriage at the entrance, and went up to the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce escorted by commercial organizations of the city and veteran societies. President Taylor, of the Chamber of Commerce, then delivered an address of welcome, to which the President responded.

President Harrison and party were met early on the nineteenth morning of the Western journey by a reception committee from Sacramento, Cal., and escorted from Davisville to that city. As the train drew into the beautifully decorated Union Depot in Sacramento a salute of twenty-one guns was fired, and an immense crowd greeted the President with cheers. Mayor Comstock spoke a few words of welcome, and the party then entered carriages and were driven to the Capitol. Thousands of people had assembled in Capitol Park, and all the school children were drawn up in line on either side of the broad walk leading up to the grand stand, and as the President was escorted through the line he was pelted with flowers. After the speechmaking the President held a short reception in Governor Markham's office, after which the party left for Oakland, the battery firing another salute as the train started. The President's special train stopped a few minutes at Benicia, and a floral tribute in the shape of a cannon was presented to the President by the school children, who were drawn up in a body. The President left the train at Berkely and visited the University of California, and the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum. He then drove to Oakland, and upon reaching that city was welcomed by a great crowd of people. The streets were gayly decorated, and the floral display was elaborate. The President made short addresses at Oakland, and afterward returned to San Francisco, where he attended a reception by the Union League Club. At the close of the reception the President was presented with a solid gold plate fac-simile of the card of invitation, beautifully enameled with the crest of the State of California and the flag of the Union.

The President and party left San Francisco on the morning of the twenty-first day out from Washington for the Northwest. A rain storm accompanied the Presidential train on the journey through the northern part of California on the way to Oregon. It was the first rain they had had since entering California. The President rose early, and was the only member of the party to greet the crowd that gathered about the train at Tehama. He was loudly cheered, and shook hands with all the people within reach. About half an hour later the train drew up at Red Bluffs, where a large crowd with a band was assembled at the station. They gave the President a most enthusiastic welcome. Captain Matlock, an old army comrade, introduced the President to the people. President Harrison in his speech referred to Captain Matlock and alluded to a number of Indiana people whom he had met in the State. Postmaster-General Wanamaker, Secretary Rusk and Mrs. Harrison were introduced to the crowd and were loudly cheered. At Redding the President and party were greeted with a national salute and showers of bouquets from a throng of school children. The President addressed the throng. The Presidential party passed through Delta about noon and at Dunsmuir the President shook hands with a large number of old soldiers and thanked the citizens for their reception.

The early part of the journey of the President and party into Oregon on the twenty-second day of their trip was made in a steady fall of rain, varying from a drizzle to a light storm. This discouraging state of affairs did not seem to damp the enthusiasm of the inhabitants, and they paid the Chief Magistrate every honor at each place visited. At Albany, which was reached at 8 o'clock, the President and all the members of the party were on the rear platform of the observation car and gave a hearty response to the enthusiastic greeting of the people. The Mayor of the city introduced the President and he acknowledged their cheers with an address. The visit to Salem was the principal event of the forenoon. The President and party arrived there at 9 o'clock and remained a little over one hour. It rained nearly all the time, which interfered somewhat with the programme, so far as the demonstration on the part of the school children was concerned. The local militia, the Grand Army Post, and the people generally were out in force and gave the distinguished visitors a royal reception. Just before leaving Salem a citizens' committee from Portland waited on the President and volunteered to escort him to Portland. A short stop was made at Schemwa. The President reviewed the pupils of the Indian school and addressed them in a few kindly and appropriate words. The Presidential party arrived at Portland, Oregan, at noon, promptly on schedule time. Twenty thousand people were in waiting and the President acknowledged their plaudits by riding bareheaded through the streets and bowing right and left. A slight rain was falling when the President reached Portland, but it soon turned into a heavy rain. However, it did not interfere with the formation of the parade. After marching about the city two hours the parade moved down Sixth street and was reviewed by the President. One feature of the parade was four thousand school children drawn up in line. In the afternoon there was a general suspension of business. President Harrison held a short reception at the hotel to members of the Grand Army of the Republic and Loyal Legion. Postmaster-General Wanamaker paid a visit to the Postoffice during the afternoon.

President Harrison and party arrived at Seattle, Washington, by boat from Tacoma on the twenty-third day of his journey. Elliott Bay was covered with vessels of every description when the steamer City of Seattle, with the party aboard, arrived. The reception by the Seattle committee aboard the steamer was without formality save a few remarks by Mayor White, to which the President replied briefly. The President and party left for Puget Sound at one A. M. and entered the State of Washington in a driving rain storm, which greatly interfered with the arrangements for his reception at various stations along the road. At Tacoma the train was met by the Governor of the State, the Mayor of Tacoma and a committee of citizens. The line of march was handsomely and appropriately decorated. Addresses of welcome were made by Governor Perry and the Mayor of the city to which President Harrison briefly responded. At eleven A. M. the party boarded the City of Seattle for the trip to Seattle.

The President and his party returned to Portland, Oregon, on the morning of the twenty-fourth day of the outing from Puget Sound, and left there at 7:15 over the Union Pacific Railroad for the East. After disembarking from the steamer at Seattle, the President and party entered carriages and were taken to cable cars and escorted to Lake Washington. After a short trip on the lake, they returned to the city and went to the University campus, where a throng of people had gathered. To the President's right were a score or more of old men who had voted for the President's grandfather in 1840. Judge Burke then delivered an address of welcome, and the President responded. Postmaster-General Wanamaker and Secretary Rusk spoke briefly, and at 5:30 the train pulled out for Portland amid the wildest enthusiasm. When the train left Portland the skies were clouded but about half-past 10 they cleared and the remainder of the trip through the picturesque valley of the Columbia was made in the brightest sunlight, which disclosed the mountains and cascades in all their beauty and grandeur. The first step of any importance was made at the Dalles, where the party received an enthusiastic welcome. In responding to the address of welcome by the Mayor, the President spoke briefly. Postmaster-General Wanamaker also made a short address. At Celilo the President visited the salmon-canning establishment and was presented with a large box of salmon caught that morning.

THE great photographic chart of the heavens to be made by a circle of international observers will be taken during June and July. The Astronomical Congress in Paris have settled all the necessary arrangements, and the work promises to be carried out admirably except in two countries—Chili, disturbed by the war; and Brazil, where a new observatory is being built at Rio Janeiro.

LATER NEWS.

UNUSUALLY cold weather prevailed throughout the Eastern and Middle States. Ice was formed in many portions of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut. Frost damaged the fruit trees and growing crops in a number of places. Snow fell in New York and Pennsylvania.

THE Spanish man-of-war Nautilus, lying in the North River, off Twenty-seventh street, New York City, was run into by a tugboat. Her gangway and one of her boats were smashed, and several of her crew narrowly escaped death.

THE Chicago's World's Fair has opened an Eastern headquarters in New York.

THE Advisory Board of the Western Traffic Association met at the Windsor Hotel in New York City.

THE remains of Dr. Joseph Leidy, the famous scientist, and those of his brother, Dr. Philip Leidy, were cremated at the crematory of the Philadelphia Crematory Society. This was done according to the expressed desire of the eminent physicians.

GENERAL J. F. B. MARSHALL died at Kendall Green, Mass. He had been manager of the Hampton Institute for Indians; member of the staff of the Massachusetts War Governor Andrews; a "forty-niner" of California, and a big sugar plantation holder in the Sandwich Islands. He was born in Boston in 1818.

THE twenty-ninth international Y. M. C. A. Convention was held in Kansas City, Mo.

HEAVY frosts in Virginia, North Carolina, Indiana, Michigan and Iowa inflicted great damage on fruits and early vegetation.

THE county infirmary, five miles east of Munice, Ind., was burned down and four of the inmates were burned to death.

THE shops of the American Wheel Company, at Sidney, Ohio, were burned. Loss $100,000.

THE Convention of Republican Clubs of Maryland was held in Baltimore.

CASHIER J. K. BRANTLEY, of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railroad Company, at Little Rock, Ark., is $20,000 short.

THE draft of the treaty of commerce between Spain and the United States has been sent to the Spanish Minister at Washington with instructions to sign it immediately.

THE Clerks in the Treasurer's office, Washington, have identified $16,900 of the $17,000 charred and buried in the recent wreck near Waring Station on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in Maryland. The money was so charred and black that the packages looked like charcoal, but by expertness in separating each note, and putting it under a strong magnifying glass, all the money was identified with the exception of $100, which the express company carrying the money will lose.

ANOTHER report regarding the condition of the Alert has been received at the Navy Department, and does not agree with any of its predecessors. If it be accepted by the Secretary as final, it will vindicate Naval Constructor Joseph Feaster, who was recently detached from the Mare Island, Cal., Navy Yard with an implied censure.

THE Bureau of American Republics at Washington learn that the Government of Colombia will erect a building at the World's Fair, the interior of which will be embellished with the different precious woods of that country. It is probable that the building will be a reproduction of the Capitol at Bogota.

THE Gladstonians won the bye-election in the Northeast Division of Suffolk, for a successor in the British Parliament to Edward Greene, Conservative.

THREE HUNDRED students and four hundred other persons have been arrested in Warsaw, Poland, for taking part in an orderly celebration of the Polish festival.

EIGHT miners were killed and seven injured by an explosion near Saarbrucken, Rhenish Russia.

CAPTAIN VERNEY, a member of the British House of Commons, has been sentenced to two years' imprisonment for conspiracy to procure a governess, Miss Nellie Beckett, for immoral purposes.

THE Russian authorities have suddenly suspended the expulsion of Hebrews from Moscow.

H. SCHNITZER, a well known banker of Berlin, Germany, was thrown from his horse, run over by a carriage and died soon afterward.

THOMAS B. AIKEN, for thirty years Record Commissioner for Nova Scotia, died a few days ago at Halifax, aged eighty-three. He was one of the most prominent Americans in Canada.

A REVOLUTIONARY movement is in progress in Costa Rica, and the President has declared a state of siege, and suspended personal guarantees.

GEORGE W., George B., V. M and T. A. Delamater, members of the late banking firm of Delamater & Co., of Meadville, Penn., were again arrested and arraigned to answer to the charge of embezzlement.

PATRICK GOLDEN, Thomas McGrail and James Kelly, members of the Select Council of Scranton, Penn., were expelled from that body by a vote of 15 to 3. They had been guilty of bribery.

THE Chilian insurgent steamship Itata sailed away from San Diego, Cal., with a Deputy United States Marshal aboard. He was set ashore at a point eight miles distant. The United States ordered the Charleston to pursue the Itata.

AN explosion of firedamp took place at Ocean Mines, in Harrison County, W. Va., while the miners were at work. Four men were instantly killed.

MRS. SAMUEL DROUGHT, of Loyd, Wis., was burned to death by her clothes catching fire while burning brush. John Lawrence, who tried to rescue her, was fatally burned.

SECRETARY BLAINE telegraphed to Director General Davis, at Chicago, Ill., stating that the German Government had signified its willingness to send exhibits to the World's Fair.

SECRETARY TRACY accepted the gunboat Bennington, subject to a contract reservation of $15,000 to insure completion.

A STATEMENT prepared at the Pension Office shows that during the month of April last there were issued 31,545 pension certificates of all classes, the first payments on which aggregated $3,874,815. The average first payment to each pensioner was $122.83.

ANOTHER letter on the Behring Sea controversy, from Secretary Blaine to Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister, was made public.

THE rebel outbreak in Costa Rica has been suppressed.

MUCH excitement was caused at Valparaiso, Chili, by an attempt to assassinate the leading members of the Cabinet. The persons engaged in the plot sought to take the lives of the Ministers by means of a bomb, which was thrown at the intended victims in the street.

A PROBABLE deficit of $17,000,000 in Argentine finances has caused another panic in Buenos Ayres. Gold is now at 264 premium.

JAMES A. BAILEY, the managing partner of the Barnum & Bailey show, is a native of Detroit and forty-four years of age. His first experience in the show business was as a paste boiler, in the bill posting department of Robinson & Lake's Circus, before the war. He was also a sutler's clerk during the war at $50 per month.

THE Passamaquoddy Indians of Maine claim exemption from the Game Laws, on the ground that the right to hunt and fish is secured to them by their treaties with Massachusetts. If this claim is sustained it practically defeats all the game laws of Maine.

The "Water-Cask" Plant.

A celebrated African traveler mentions that in crossing one of the many sandy deserts in that country he came across the only known living species of aqua bulbo, the "water-cask" plant. The region it inhabits is far from any stream of water, where, as far as the eye can reach, nothing can be seen but heaps of sand. "The sight of this little green creeper, which resembles the common ground ivy in some respects," he says, "filled me with an intense longing to once more see the green meadows and cool, shady forests which we had now left at least 300 miles behind. For four days we had not seen even so much as a spear of grass or a dried-up cactus, the latter having been quite plentiful the week before. The botanist of the company, in examining one of the plants, found thus unexpectedly growing in the centre of a sandy African desert, noticed what he supposed was a green, bulbous fruit growing under the thick leaves of the creeper, almost resting upon the sand underneath. In making an effort to pluck one of these for preservation it burst with a smart report, throwing water in the face and over the clothes of the intruding naturalist. Here, surely, we had a first-class wonder; a plant growing in the desert with no other green thing in sight, carrying its own water-bags with it. Parvin, our chemist, analyzed the water found in some of the bulbs picked for his inspection, and declared it to be absolutely pure, as much so as distilled rain water. Each bulb or berry contained about two to four tablespoonfuls of water. As it happened, we had a supply of water sufficient for our journey and to spare, but Williamson, the botanist, and Parvin, the chemist, with all the enthusiasm of true scientists, plucked about a quart of the waterberries and extracted the water, something over a pint, and drank it with apparent relish."—St. Louis Republic.

Bears and Telegraph Poles.

It is said that every telegraph pole in the remote country districts of Norway has to be continually watched on account of the bears. These animals have a mania for climbing the poles and sitting on the cross beams, swaying backward and forward until the pole finally falls.

Gladstone's Hats.

Mr. Gladstone has three hats, and three only. One is black and very old. The second one is white and is used only in summer. The third is a soft felt and his constant traveling companion. Its age is not known, but certainly it was not new in 1860.

SEVEN Turkish students have arrived in Berlin to study architecture at the expense of the Sultan.

A man who has practiced medicine for 40 years ought to know salt from sugar; read what he says:
TOLEDO, O., January 10, 1887.
Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen: I have been in the general practice of medicine for most 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions.
Yours truly,
L. L. GORSUCH, M. D.,

SMALL potatoes with cream sauce is the popular form for ice cream.

What is lacking is truth and confidence.

If there were absolute truth on the one hand and absolute confidence on the other, it wouldn't be necessary for the makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy to back up a plain statement of fact by a $500 guarantee.

They say—"If we can't cure you (make it personal, please,) of catarrh in the head, in any form or stage, we'll pay you $500 for your trouble in making the trial."

"An advertising fake," you say.

Funny, isn't it, how some people prefer sickness to health when the remedy is positive and the guarantee absolute.

Wise men don't put money back of "fakes."

And "faking" doesn't pay.

In the Spring.
Nature should be assisted, when the system is changing from the full habit of the winter months, to the lighter diet of the warm season. Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) stimulates the sluggish blood and rid you of that feeling of heaviness and languor.
S. S. S., beautifies the skin and makes the complexion rosy and healthy.
S. S. S., gives elasticity to the step and buoyant spirits.
S. S. S., makes the feeble and delicate strong and robust.
S. S. S., is a tonic to the whole body and increases vitality.
S. S. S., is a simple vegetable medicine.
If there is poison in the blood, it generally shows itself in the spring, and this is the season to help nature to drive it out and be cured. Nothing does this as well as S. S. S. It is harmless to the most delicate, yet so powerful as to cleanse the system of all impurities.
